Rush British Troops To Scene Of Fighting In Belfast District

London.—Fighting between republican troops and specials has been in progress along a mile front on the Irish border, according to advices to the Central News. Seven lorry loads of British troops have been rushed to the scene from Newry.

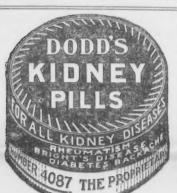

In view of the Irish situation has shifted to Ulster where the borderland disturbances and the Belfast outrages are more serious than ever. The conference of Sir James Craig, the Ulster leader, and the Marquess of Londonderry, who said that Lloyd George were not productive of optimistic statements regarding the solution of the problem.

It is understood that the question of aid to support the Ulster government in its war against an invasion of the territory was considered, and an agreement reached. The situation remains grave.

The Ulster Standard's Belfast correspondent says:

"Appalling disorders have occurred here, the like of which this city of horrors has never experienced before. Between seven and noon, ambulances were summoned thirteen times. The streets were red with machine gun fire, the rebels, in turn, bombed several places; the firemen fought flames while two whole blocks of houses were set on fire, while the rebels waged in the streets the grim battle. "Nine civilians were carried out dead from this inferno, two of them women. Many were killed in houses, into which the rival factions pursued their fury. The bodies were rescued only in time to prevent cremation."

"Bayonet charges by the military were necessary to dislodge the mob."

which gathered to join in the battle. The gunmen retreated to the Grosvenor Road, where a fierce battle broke out, involving London police, Norfolk Street, Grosvenor Place, McDonnell Street and other thoroughfares. The crown forces had a difficult task in suppressing the gunmen, to silence for a while, but later the rebels mounted a machine gun and swept the streets, causing men, women and children to flee for their lives."

Advocates Direct Taxation

Woman Member at Ottawa Thinks Canadians Come Near to Distant Worshippers

Ottawa.—The Government that supports it is bound to do all it can to save its hands, but the Government not willing to take its life in its hands is possibly not the best kind of Government.

So Miss Agnes Macphail, Canada's woman member, pleaded for direct taxation at a meeting of the Canadian Women's Political Association.

The streets were red with machine gun fire, the rebels, in turn, bombed several places; the firemen fought flames while two whole blocks of houses were set on fire, while the rebels waged in the streets the grim battle.

London Museums

Are Overstocked

Art Treasures May be Loaned to Dominion Cities

London.—Centralization of National Art collections and of the surplus treasures to the larger cities in the United Kingdom and the Dominions was decided at the annual meeting of the National Art Collections Fund, held at the Savoy Hotel. Alfred Mond, Minister of Health, said the London museums were overstocked and their cells full of treasures. He especially advocated the circulation of British works of art in the larger cities. He also expressed the hope that the British museum would be given legal power like the other art galleries to circulate their treasures.

Sir Robert Witt, trustee of the National Gallery, London, and one of the founders of the National Art Collections Fund, who presided at the meeting, urged the necessity of proceeding to go abroad and compensating the owners in cases where the refusal to sell to foreigners and the retention of art treasures in this country, would mean pecuniary loss.

Turks Continue Atrocities

British Cannot Act Until Reply Received from Turkey

London.—Acta of great barbarity are still being committed by the Turks against the Greeks in the Troad, according to Mr. C. D. Davies, Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, told the House of Commons when questioned on the subject.

Harmsworth gave independent evidence of the Turkish atrocities for his statement. He said it was reported that little boys were collected in compounds and there allowed to starve to death. The Turkish Government, he said, had used its power to help the despatch of the proposed commission of enquiry, but no further action could be taken until a reply was received to the invitation extended to the International Commission to the Troad.

Wheat Board Question

Will Be Taken Up After Budget Debate

Ottawa.—The situation as regards the passage of legislation establishing a wheat board was the subject of questions put in the House of Commons by Lieut. H. H. Stevens. Mr. Stevens asked the government to consider this question to a special committee was made on March 27 with indications of a need of haste. A report was made by May 26. It involved legislation by Parliament and also by government departments in order to provide for handling this year's wheat crop. Yet the resolution had been passed by the House of Commons for seven days. Stevens wanted to know what was the reason delay in this regard and whether it had anything to do with the somewhat extraordinary action by the committee Friday last in resounding a former motion.

The Prime Minister replied that

Wheat Board Certificates

Many Participation Certificates Are Still Outstanding

Ottawa.—There are yet nearly $10,000 worth of wheat board participation certificates outstanding.

According to a return tabled in the House by Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Trade and Commerce, in answer to a question asked by C. C. Davies, Progressive member for the Troad, the amount of $500,000 was turned over to the Federal Government by the Canada Wheat Board from surplus account, Mr. Davies was informed, and also $175,000 from participation certificates issued by the Prairie Wheat Board during participation certificates on May 22, 1922, was $200,538.4.

Applications for payment on outstanding participation certificates are still being received, and are paid by the Canada Wheat Board, it was stated.

The questions when such payments will be discontinued has not yet been considered.

It was also reported that the Canada Wheat Board had recommended that the amount of $500,000 transferred from surplus account should be distributed to the provincial governments in proportion to the amount of the quantity of wheat delivered to the board by the producers in each province, such monies to be used for the immediate relief of distressed farmers.

Mr. Davies said that the amount of $100,000 remaining on account of unpaid certificates should be used for research work, particularly for the promotion of black rust in wheat.

New War Memorial

Daughters of Empire Plan Bursaries For Canadian Scholars

Vancouver.—In memory of men and women who gave their lives in the defense of the Empire in the great war, the Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire, have a war memorial in the form of bursaries to Canadian universities, overseas post-graduate scholarships and the placing of pictures on historical themes in school libraries, according to the report of the War Memorial Committee, which presented by Constance H. Lang, convenor, to the convention of the order.

Miss Elva Simmons, editor of The Advance, Rimley, Alberta.

London.—With Germany undeterred, Premier Lloyd George had planned to make a brief statement on reparations in the House of Commons, but when John Robert Clynes, Labor member, rose to speak, the premier and attributed the present difficulties to the present election pledges of 1918, the Prime Minister launched into a lengthy defense of the reparations committee and the treaty of Versailles.

Mr. Lloyd George praised the German attitude towards the reparations commission and said so long as she was not defiant, Germany could count on the support of the Allies and understanding of the difficulties of making the treaty conditions. He declared, however, that there was no cause for disagreement between France and Great Britain for after Germany rejected the attempt to nullify the compensation proposals, Great Britain's place would be at the side of the Versailles signatories despite the misrepresentations which were being made.

Nine bursaries one for each province will be awarded annually for a period of eighteen months. For this year only the children of deceased and permanently disabled soldiers and sailors and men of the air force are eligible. These bursaries will be of value of $250 per annum, tenable for four years.

The choice of the university is left to the scholar and the Royal Military College may be substituted for a university.

To Prevent Liquor Importation

Ottawa.—John Miller (Qu'Appelle) asked in the House of Commons whether representations had been made to the Canadian Government.

"We could probably be compelled to do that if day refused to come in such a policy; we are pursuing the same course."

"If Germany is defiant, if she does not say yes to our treaty we shall carry on. We are not direct."

"Yes" was the Prime Minister's brief reply.

Would Welcome Ex-Indian Officers

London.—Responding to a recent speech of Sir Frank B. Harber, president of the Rawlinson Prentiss Horses, he has given assurance that the Commonwealth would heartily welcome as settlers the 2,000 officers who are returning from the Indian Army.

It is not a question of France acting now. If we act now we are breaking the Versailles treaty. We are signatories to the treaty, while the House of Commons ratified it.

"I am grateful to the Prime Minister for his statement," said Mr. Lloyd George.

"The movement in that day refused to come in such a policy; we are pursuing the same course."

How Radium Is Weighed

Toe is Placed Near Most Sensitive Electrical Instrument

A cogent account of the vastness of the problem of producing radium was given by Sir Ernest Rutherford the other day at the Royal Institution.

Over 100 thousand tons of the mineral contain only a tenth of the amount of radium enough for the chemist to treat, and this 500 tons, selected by hand-picking, produces after many elaborate chemical processes some 10 milligrams of radium.

If we represented the picked ore by a line drawn from London to Edinburgh, he said, the actual amount of radium it contained would be represented by a line 10 miles long.

One of the most remarkable features of radium is that, in spite of the very small quantities in which it is employed, the exact amount contained in a tube or bottle can be measured with a balance to within a few minutes. It is not even necessary to open the bottle to examine the contents.

Radium is weighed on to speak by electricity, the signal tube is placed near a sensitive electroscope—the most delicate instrument we possess for measuring very minute quantities of electricity—and by comparing it with a known standard, the amount of the radium is quickly found.

By this simple method of testing hundreds of thousands of pounds' worth of radium are sold every year.

Record Sum for Rare Postage Stamp

Thirty-Five Thousand Dollars Paid by American Collector

One of the rarest stamps in the world, a one-cent black stamp of the 1856 issue of British Guiana, was sold last night in New York for what may possibly be a record sum of $35,000.

It was bought by Mr. Hugo Oberleit, a London stamp expert, now an American collector. The previous highest price for a stamp of this type paid last June, 1911, was "the cent 1856 British Guiana" belonged to the collection of the late Baron de la Rochebois de Ferrary.

The Baron was a Frenchman who gave his collection to the Colle^ege de France, but France on the declaration of war, died in 1917, bequeathing his priceless collection to the Berlin Philharmonic, who has since sold it to a German collector.

The proceeds of the sale will be paid to the reparations account. The stamp was one of an emergency issue prepared by a firm of local printers, in Georgetown, British Guiana, in 1856.

It was issued for a trifling sum only for a few shillings in 1873, and later was part of a collection sold for £120. For the unique American cent stamp, a New York dealer paid $12,375 francs (1500 at present rate of exchange) was paid on behalf of Mr. Hind, a wealthy American collector.

The total amount realized by the sale was over $600,000. There is still in the world (or in the States) a lot of money for fads.

English Minister Starts Fruit Farm

Emigrates to Canada to Give Sons English Roots

To start fruit farming in Ontario, the Rev. Andrew Veerens, Congregational minister of Laird, Devon, sailed recently with his wife and family from Liverpool.

He is 62 years of age, and he explained that he was emigrating so that his sons would have a better opportunity to get on in life. Two sons had already gone out, and besides his wife, Mr. Veerens is accompanied by two other sons and two daughters.

Prize Open to World

Owing to the weight of authority that can be brought to bear, those who might as easily be lifting stones from the door to his shoulder. The female voice, however, is of quite a different calibre, for its mechanical requirements so little, that it is easier to learn to sing than to learn to play another sphere of work, in this at 2 lb. weight 40 ins. from the ground every minute. But that is only one-fifth of the energy wasted by a typical girl, and the man who might as easily be lifting stones from the door to his shoulder. Those who maintain that women are not equal to men, perhaps know that there is a scientific explanation for the phenomenal discoveries some years ago by a French investigator. The average male, he asserted, speaks for one hour, and sleeps for 10 hours; the average female, however, sleeps for 10 hours, and spends for 12 hours in another sphere of work, in this case four times as long and four times as easily as a man for the same expenditure of energy, which explains Professor Jesperson's discovery, as well as the widespread belief that women are the weaker sex.

The prize will be open to the world and the award will be made by the Royal College of Physicians and the Royal College of Surgeons of London.

Memoirs of the Ex-Kaiser

Wilson May Get One Million for Foreign Rights

The Daily Chronicle publishes the following extract from the memoirs of the Ex-Kaiser:

William has practically completed the manuscript of his long-expected book. Parts of it have been shown to likely readers. I believe the ex-Kaiser is standing on the crest of a wave of popularity, and that he is practically certain to get that sum.

At the present rate of exchange the amount is equal to nearly $200,000,000, much more than he has received from royalties since the revolution. Besides that figure the royalties from the sale of the German edition will be small indeed.

The ex-Kaiser has, of course, had his enemies and other body in turning out the volume, and has appealed to many of his old friends and advisers for comment in the matter of what to say and not say in such a book. He has been compelled to come to a considerable portion of the narrative. This volume will contain a very careful and guarded story. It will, of course, be argumentative and provocative, something like the happenings during the main period a number of pre-war years and those of the great world struggle—but there will be no political surprises, sensations or indiscretions."

Why Women Talk

Milk as a Body Builder

Protein in Milk Rates High in Food Value

Man's efficiency depends much on the condition of his health, which in turn depends greatly on the food he eats.

From food the body gets the material for development, upkeep and repair. On this protein basis, milk, protein and casein are nutritive values.

It is found in eggs, meat, cereals, legumes, fat and in milk and milk products.

However, however, have the same value; that is, the same amount of protein per gram of milk is less than that required by other foods.

Experiments show that when protein from cereals is the only protein in the diet, growth is slow and the animal is slow to mature.

When milk is the only source, the body can make use of as high as 65 per cent.

Furthermore, when an animal is fed both cereals and milk, the growth is greater than if it is given only a small percentage will be used to do its special work in the body, but if we add milk generously, not only will the milk protein be utilized, but the greatest ratio of digestible protein to the animal's weight is obtained in the cereal when it is contained in the cereal will be utilized.

This is true of such simple combinations as bread and milk, oatmeal and milk, rice and milk, etc., and proves their worth, we have only recently understood the real reason of the importance and the combination.

These facts and others calculated to give reliable information on the value of milk to the animal were given to the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa in a publication, entitled "Why and How to Use Milk," which also contains many recipes.

Will Distribute Seed for Stages

Sunflowers and corn seed for stages will be distributed by the Provincial Government to Alberta farmers during the summer months.

Those who maintain that women are the weaker sex, and therefore, perhaps know that there is a scientific explanation for the phenomenal discoveries some years ago by a French investigator.

The average male, he asserted, speaks for one hour, and sleeps for 10 hours;

the average female, however, spends for 12 hours in another sphere of work, in this case four times as long and four times as easily as a man for the same expenditure of energy, which explains Professor Jesperson's discovery, as well as the widespread belief that women are the weaker sex.

The prize will be open to the world and the award will be made by the Royal College of Physicians and the Royal College of Surgeons of London.

After the Pennies

The Fraction of Currency Gaining a New Importance

It is not many long ago that in Western Canada the huge copper was despised—not less than a nickel counted—indeed, in many of the smaller centres coppers are listed under "copper cents" even though the coins change—changing fast—of the west are realizing that the day of long profits has gone.

We are patterning ourselves on institutions which calculate their percentage of circulation, and that we are patterning ourselves on institutions which calculate their percentage of circulation.

No more striking example of the tendency to make volume the dead objective is offered than the recent attempt of a Canadian bank putting out a series of advertising pamphlets for deposits of very small sums.

Instead of the laudatory invitation "one dollar opens a savings account," now cordially invite initial deposit of five cents.

Indeed, it is often offered to encourage the small depositor that he should start with a cent the first week and each week make the deposit one cent larger.

It is easy to imagine that even the most modest individual could, in 50 weeks, save $2.50 cents.

The point of accumulation will be $12.75 in 50 weeks.

The plan may be reversed by paying the larger sum first and decreasing it one cent weekly until at the end of the period the deposit is one cent.

If the depositor wishes to increase the amount of the weekly payment, he can do so at any time, two cents, five cents, 10 cents, 20 cents, 25 cents, 30 cents, 35 cents, 40 cents, 45 cents, 50 cents, Will Publish Information Regarding Copper Eskimos Of Coronation Gulf Area

Curious stories of strange people dwelling in the Canadian Northland abound in Volume XII of official reports on the Canadian Arctic expedition 1912-13. The party which started from Inuvik, is the command of Dr. J. T. Jenness, ethnologist with the southern party of the expedition. It deals with the little-known Copper Eskimos of Coronation Gulf. They tell stories of their lands and their religion; their dances (built of snow blocks), their food, how they marry and give in marriage, of their amusements, their pathology and anomalies of the mysterious lands of the north. Dr. Jenness "the mediator and intercessor between the living Eskimos and the supernatural world of shades and spirits."

There have been various explorations of the Copper Eskimos' country since Samuel Hearne travelled overland with a party of Chipewyan Indians to the mouth of the Coppermine River in 1771. Sir John Franklin visited them in 1826 and 1845. In 1880 and till 1912 that the Copper Eskimos first came into conflict with civilized law. Then a Northwest Mounted Police patrol visited the Eskimos and arrested their numbers of two. One was a missionary who were tried in Edmonton and Calgary.

The report, which is exhaustive, closes with words of warning. It observes that rapid changes are taking place in the Eskimos' way of life, largely of iron and steel; rifles, fish nets, open boats, European textiles and sewing machines, European foods, cheap musical instruments and the development of trade at the expense of hunting and sealing will affect a complete transformation in the course of a few years. "Already," says Mr. Jenness, "the new culture elements and new ideas, teaching that all good things from above have profoundly modified their social and religious ideas, and before the present generation passes away, the primitiveness of the Copper Eskimos will have ceased to exist." Civilization will come by that time, and whether they will be able to take part in the development of the region depends largely on the manner in which we fulfill our trust. For in the same manner as the English and French invaders we have incurred a heavy responsibility towards the natives. We may increase our obligations to them by checking infantile and number, we may protect them from unscrupulous exploitation and from the ravages of intoxicating liquors, but all this will be of little avail if we do not take measures to secure them against the introduction of our diseases. The epidemic influenza in 1918 exacted a terrible toll among the Eskimos of Northern Canada, and it is to be hoped that it will be politically wiped out. The Copper Eskimos have no diseases of their own, or at least none were known to us in 1916; but white men and Western civilization, flocking into the country, and in a few years time, will fall victims to some of the scourges of our civilization. It may be impossible to prevent this calamity entirely, but at least we can do our best to prevent it.

The same letter states that in the present time, the only practicable route into the Copper Eskimo country is by way of the Mackenzie River and if one wants to go to go eastward without a certificate from a medical officer it might be possible to have these natives from the worst of our diseases and a more or less speedy extinction.

Home Owners

No other country in the world shows such a high proportion of home owners in the cities and about as does Canada. Some interesting evidence on this subject has been supplied to the MacLean Building Reports, Limited, by the assessment department of ten leading Canadian cities. From the statistics the total number of residences is 261,361, and the number occupied by owners total 123,882; occupied by tenants 235,482; thus the ratio of house ownership is, therefore, 35 per cent.

More Efficient Cancer Treatment

The treatment of cancer is becoming more efficient by use of the highest doses of X-ray. A report of the results of the Mid-American Convention of the Radiological Society of North America.

Although radio specialists throughout the world have been experimenting with higher penetrating ionizing rays for some years it is only recently that tangible results, showing more efficient treatment, have been obtained, the physicians said.

Was a Hopeless Case

The College Professor Who Could Not Be Cured of the Betting Evil

A young but exceptionally brilliant professor in a western college was deeply interested in his career, secured a position in an eastern college. To the president he wrote: "The Dean must have a present wife, and another woman to care for him, if betting will be a benefit to society."

The professor went east, and was cordially received. Conversation had proceeded "but a few minutes when the professor said: 'I'll bet you seventy-five dollars that I won't start between your shoulder-blades.'

The president hesitated. "Young man," he said, "I never bet; but you can teach me a lesson I will take off your shirt."

He thereupon proved to the young man's satisfaction that he was in error, and the professor paid the seven-five.

The professor wrote back: "I fear the case is hopeless. The very day he left here he bet me one hundred dollars that he could make you take off your shirt."

Head Hunters of India

Prince of Wales Saw Strange Collection in Singapore

The Prince of Wales visited Singapore in the Malay States on his way home from India.

Driving up to the Government House he passed what his correspondent called the strangest collection of head-hunters, pirates and savages that ever he had seen up.

From British North Borneo came men armed with parangs, bows and arrows, and wearing, each, one human hair; and their chests and backs protected by armour of python scale or clodius leopard, or men goat or fish skin, with scales as big as those of tarpon.

The natives of the fight saw for ten-inch and gaunters of horse hair and hammered brass wire, but ready for any man besides themselves.

Many of the men bore traces of fierce strife, and nearly all were heavily tattooed.

In the middle of the crowd,

this unshaven, hairy, bald-headed man sat in scanty bands of russet silk weighted with gold.

The young lady, instead of a fan, carried the brightly decorated sword of an enemy who had been cut out of the way. The natives in orange were mounted on camels, and the camels also were heavily tattooed.

Holdings and Exports Of Butter and Cheese

Holdings of Dairy Products Show Marked Decrease

Statistics furnished in the Dairy News Letter issued by the Dominion Dairy and Cold Storage Branch show that the holdings on April 1 of this year in Canada were 1,290,450 cwt., while on the same date last year, 1,296,236 cwt., and on April 1, 1913, 1,326,157 cwt.

The same letter shows that in the first three months of this year the United Kingdom imported from Canada 61,205 cwt. of cheese as compared with 61,325 cwt. from New Zealand. The latter country's export of butter to Great Britain had more than doubled the first three months of this year over the same period of last year. Australia also shows considerable increase in exports both of butter and cheese.

Collecting Debts

When a man owes you a large debt—so large that he is unwilling to pay it—what are the ways of handling him? One is to leave him sweating on the Anxious Seat. The other is to fetch him into the private office, cheer him up and then you can collect the debt and interest and will put out of this pluck all right in the end, and you can get him all the help you can.

Wavling considerations of law or of good breeding, the sound method is far the more expedient if you hope to get your money back—Boston Globe.

Memorial for Airmen In Westminster Abbey

Window Overlooks Tomb of Great Britain's Unknown Warrior.
British officers and soldiers who died in the air service during the Great War have been given a permanent memorial in Westminster Abbey through the generosity of Mrs. Lewis Bennett, of Wheeling, West Virginia. Her son, Lewis, was killed in France in 1918 while acting as pilot with the British forces.

The memorial, which was dedicated with impressive services by the Dean, Mr. L. G. Scott, and the Bishop of London, was erected in memory of the sacrifice of aviators, and it contains a figure of the Archangel Michael, who has become known as the "guardian angel of the sky."

Picnic At "Easteleigh"

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bromley "Easteleigh," gave a delightful picnic on Saturday, June 3rd on their beautiful grounds which are constantly being present.

A very pleasant afternoon was spent in games, boating, etc., after which a dainty tea was served at fresco, the host and hostess assisted by two daughters, Miss Margaret and Miss Rosemary, and two sons, Roy and Percy. Needless to say the guests did full justice to the good things provided and the day was a happy one.

Incidents usually attendant to such occasions. The following were the invited guests Rev. A. A. Adams, Edmonton; Mr. and Mrs. Walker McDonald; Panniker, Dr. and Mrs. Drake, Dorothy Martin, Messrs. W. McCleary, Lester and George Sayers, Bert and Leslie Smith Norman and Gordon Bradshaw, G. G. Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. Drake.

About eight o'clock most were turned homeward, very reluctantly, thoroughly pleased with the outing (in spite of the drizzle) and many expressions of thanks were tendered Mr. and Mrs. Bromley and family for their delightful hospitality.

A Report Is Essential
